Rembrella Poppy Umbrellas in Australia

The images of poppies on the old Flanders battlefields and umbrellas lining the route of The Armistice Day Poppy Parade to the Menin Gate Memorial in Ieper (Ypres) inspired Lt. Colonel (Rtd) Graham Parker OBE, instigator of the Parade and a respected historian and Vice President of the Western Front Association, to develop the Poppy Umbrella.

The Poppy Umbrella, resembling a Flanders poppy when open, has been manufactured for Rembrella by Fultons, the largest supplier of quality umbrellas in the UK, and the holder of a Royal Warrant to Her Late Majesty The Queen and the Queen Mother.

The Rembrella products are premium gifts available only available for sale through registered charities of ex-Service and welfare organizations, or military and heritage museums, or educational associations and not-for-profit organizations.

In 2009 Rembrella appointed Families and Friends of the First AIF as its Australian importer. Rembrella products are sold through organisations that commemorate the service and sacrifice of Australians in The Great War including the Australian War Memorial in Canberra, the National ANZAC Centre in Albany, and the Anzac Memorial Sydney.

More than 5,000 Rembrella products have been sold in Australia with sales benefiting these organisations and also contributing funding to Commemorations and to projects placing headstones on previously unmarked graves of returned Diggers. www.ffaif.org.au
